

Exposed to Cowboys Prince Charming (ILR #295141) August 11th, 2025. Planning to get her ultrasound and confirmed before attending the show.

She is an exceptionally correct black female with a proven record of productivity, temperament, and versatility. She is an outstanding mother with strong maternal instincts, consistently raising her crias with ease and requiring no additional assistance or intervention. Her reliability as a producer makes her a valuable addition to any breeding program.

In addition to her quality as a brood female, she has an exceptional disposition. She is incredibly easy to handle, making routine care such as shearing, nail trimming, and maintenance stress-free. Her affectionate personality and love for attention makes her a favorite among everyone she meets.

She has been a valued part of our 4-H program for many years, where she has excelled with youth handlers and provided countless positive experiences. She was also one of my main performance animals for ILR shows, demonstrating her trainability, confidence, and versatility in the show ring.

A combination of correctness, maternal ability, outstanding temperament, and proven performance history makes her a truly special female.
